A Professional's Guide to Dealing with Dying

Thursday, January 15, 2004

8:00 am – 4:00 pm

St. Joseph's Center Auditorium

Offering seven CEUs

Purpose of the Seminar To provide professionals with the tools to create enhanced communication and understanding related to the dynamics of loss, grief and dying.

Learning Objectives Upon completion of this conference, participants should be able to:

1. Define the importance of ongoing communication with the interdisciplinary team, patient and family throughout an end of life process.
2. Identify three (3) factors that influence communication in the palliative care setting.
3. Identify three (3) characteristics that patient/families expect of healthcare professionals in caring for them in the hospice setting.
4. Define personal death awareness and cumulative loss associated with professional caregiving.
5. Identify at least three (3) ways to remain emotionally present during the dying process and immediately following the death of a patient.
6. Learn methods to maintain physical, emotional and spiritual health while serving as a caregiver. Participants will be given practical tips on how to utilize a sense of humor and positive attitude as tools in dealing with grief.
7. Provide three (3) interventions that may be appropriate to facilitate normal grief for professionals, patients and families.
8. Define personal death awareness and cumulative loss associated with professional caregiving.
9. Define the importance of recognizing the emotional and spiritual needs of the patient, as well as the physical. Even when facing death, we are entitled to feel joy and the empowering properties of laughter.
